THE LUDARIUM · TEACH SHEET

Teach Arcs in ten minutes

2 to 4 players · 60 to 180 minutes (about 45 minutes per player in a first game, 30 once you know it) · Ages 14 and up

> The goal: Have the most Power when the game ends, gained from first and second place in declared ambitions.

On your turn

1. Lead: play any card. One action per pip. You may declare its ambition first.
2. Surpass: same suit, higher number. Take actions up to your card's pips.
3. Copy: any card face down. Take one action from the lead card.
4. Pivot: a card of another suit. Take one action from your own card.
5. Seize: play an extra card face down to take the initiative now.
6. Highest Surpass takes the initiative, unless someone seized it.
7. Prelude: spend resources before your pips for bonus actions.

Three tips for your first game

1. Declaring sets the lead card to 0, so anyone in that suit can Surpass it.
2. Count the cards left in hands. With six cards each, a chapter runs about six rounds.
3. Teach the card play first, then the actions, then ambitions. Battle can wait for the first fight.

Setup

1. Shuffle the 2 to 6 action cards. Add the 1s and 7s only with four players.
2. Ambition markers on their blue sides, chapter marker on 1, zero marker in its slot.
3. Shuffle the Court deck. Deal 3 cards with two players, 4 with three or four.
4. Draw a setup card. Close its out-of-play clusters with a path marker and three out-of-play markers.
5. Each player: 3 ships and a city in A, 3 ships and a starport in B, 2 ships in C.
6. Take the two resources matching your A and B planets. Draw 6 action cards each.

Scoring

- Chapter ends when nobody has cards left. Score only declared ambitions.
- Tycoon: most Material and Fuel. Keeper: most Relics. Empath: most Psionics.
- Tyrant: most Captives. Warlord: most Trophies.
- First place takes the higher number on every marker there; second takes the lower.
- Tie for first: all tied take second. You need at least one of the thing counted.
- Built cities uncover +2 and +3 bonuses for ambitions you win outright.

Game end: After a chapter's scoring, the game ends if anyone has 27 Power (4 players), 30 (3), or 33 (2), or after Chapter 5. Most Power wins.
