THE LUDARIUM · TEACH SHEET

Teach Arkham Horror: The Card Game in ten minutes

1 to 4 players · About 1 to 2 hours per scenario · Ages 14 and up

The goal: Work together to advance the act deck through each scenario before the agenda deck runs out.

On your turn

1. Mythos: add 1 doom, check the agenda, each investigator draws an encounter card. Skip it in round 1.
2. Investigation: each investigator takes 3 actions, in any order the group picks.
3. Actions: draw, resource, play, activate, move, investigate, engage, fight, evade.
4. Enemy: hunter and patrol enemies move, then each ready engaged enemy attacks and exhausts.
5. Upkeep: ready everything, draw 1 card, gain 1 resource, discard down to 8.
6. Skill test: commit matching icons, pull one chaos token, meet or beat the difficulty.
7. Engaged with a ready enemy? Any action but Fight, Evade, Parley, or Resign provokes an attack.

Three tips for your first game

1. Teach the round order and attacks of opportunity first. They cause the most mistakes.
2. Say your plan out loud each round, but let each player decide their own actions.
3. Play the first scenario on Easy or Standard with the core starter decks.

Setup

1. Each player picks a different investigator and shuffles their deck.
2. Choose a lead investigator. Set out damage, horror, clue/doom, and resource tokens.
3. Fill the chaos bag with the tokens your difficulty lists in the campaign guide.
4. Each investigator takes 5 resources and draws 5 cards. One mulligan each.
5. Follow the scenario setup: encounter deck, starting location, agenda and act decks.

Scoring

- Spend the clues an act asks for, as a group, to advance it.
- Defeated Victory cards go to the victory display and become experience.
- Defeat by damage or horror ends your game and adds 1 trauma.

Game end: A scenario ends when a resolution is reached, usually by advancing the final act or agenda, or when every investigator is defeated.
