THE LUDARIUM · TEACH SHEET

Teach Gloomhaven: Jaws of the Lion in ten minutes

1 to 4 players · 60 to 120 minutes per scenario · Ages 14 and up

The goal: Work together to complete each scenario's goal before every character is exhausted, then grow your characters across the campaign.

On your turn

1. Card selection: everyone secretly picks two cards. Talk plans, but no numbers or card names.
2. Initiative: reveal. Lowest goes first. Monsters use their ability card's number.
3. Your turn: top half of one card and bottom half of the other, in either order.
4. Any card can be a basic Attack 2 on top or Move 2 on the bottom.
5. Monsters focus on the character they can attack with the least movement, then act.
6. End of round: shuffle a modifier deck that drew a 2x or a null. Elements wane.
7. Short rest at end of round, or long rest as your turn at initiative 99.

Three tips for your first game

1. Play as you read: the Learn to Play Guide teaches one scenario at a time.
2. Count your rounds. Every rest costs a card, and lost actions cost more.
3. Before you pick a card, ask which character each monster will focus on.

Setup

1. Each player picks a character: Demolitionist, Hatchet, Red Guard, or Voidwarden.
2. Take the mat, figure, hit point dial, reference card, modifier deck, and the cards the guide names.
3. Set the dial's red side to your hit points, under level 1 on the mat.
4. Open the scenario book to the scenario. It is the map.
5. Place figures on starting hexes and monsters by the row for your character count.
6. Monster stat cards go in envelopes at the scenario level. Shuffle every modifier deck.

Scoring

- Gold: 2 per money token at scenario levels 0 and 1.
- Experience comes from icons on the actions you use, plus a scenario bonus.
- Battle goals give check marks. Every three check marks earn a perk.
- Reach 45 experience for level 2. Thresholds are on your character sheet.

Game end: A scenario ends at the end of the round when its goal is met, or when every character is exhausted. The campaign runs through 25 branching scenarios.
