THE LUDARIUM · TEACH SHEET

Teach Riftbound in ten minutes

2 to 4 players · Varies; the Tournament Rules recommend 60-minute rounds for best-of-three matches

The goal: Score 8 points first by conquering and holding battlefields with your units.

On your turn

1. Awaken: ready everything you control.
2. Beginning: start of turn effects, then score 1 point per battlefield you hold.
3. Channel: put the top 2 runes of your Rune Deck into play, ready.
4. Draw 1. Empty deck? Burn out: shuffle in your trash, and an opponent gains 1 point.
5. Action: play cards, use abilities, and exhaust units to move, in any order.
6. End: every unit heals, and this-turn effects end.

Three tips for your first game

1. Units enter exhausted, so plan your moves a turn ahead.
2. Holding pays every turn; conquering pays once.
3. Recycling runes for power leaves fewer runes on the table next turn.

Setup

1. Each player: Legend and Chosen Champion face up; 39-card Main Deck and 12-card Rune Deck shuffled.
2. Each player brings 3 battlefields and picks 1 at random. Put both in the middle.
3. Choose a first player at random.
4. Draw 4. Set aside up to 2, draw that many, then recycle the set-aside cards.
5. The second player channels 3 runes on their first turn instead of 2.

Scoring

- Energy: exhaust a rune for 1. Power: recycle a rune for 1 of its domain.
- Units enter exhausted, at your base or a battlefield you control.
- Move: exhaust a unit to go from base to a battlefield, or back.
- Empty battlefield: move in and conquer it for 1 point.
- Enemy units there: a showdown for Actions and Reactions, then the fight.
- Each side deals its total Might. Lethal to one unit before the next; Tank first.
- Only attackers left: they conquer. Defenders left: surviving attackers go home.

Game end: Reach 8 points with more than anyone else. A conquer only gives the final point if you scored every battlefield that turn.
